

Log in to GoDaddy, select My Account, and follow the Manage Your Account link.

The screenshot shows the GoDaddy account management interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with 'United States - English', 'Currency USD', and a 'My Account' link circled in green with an arrow pointing to it. Below the navigation bar, on the left, is a sidebar with 'Customer #:17927332', 'My Payments', 'My Renewals', 'Log Out', and a 'Visit My Account' button. On the right, under 'Quick Links', there are several links: 'Manage Your Domains', 'Manage Your Account' (circled in green with an arrow pointing to it), 'Manage Website Builder', 'Manage Email', 'Manage Your Hosting', 'Office 365 Email Login', 'Manage SSL Certificates', 'GoDaddy Webmail Login', and 'Reseller Login'.

Expand your DOMAINS section, find the domain you want to use with your site, and click Launch.

The screenshot shows the 'DOMAINS' section of the GoDaddy account. At the top, there is a 'Launch' button. Below it, there are tabs for 'Domains', 'Transfers', 'Auctions', and 'My Bids'. A search bar labeled 'Jump to domain' is present. The main content is a table with the following columns: 'My Domains', 'Expires', 'Registration Type', 'Associated Products', and 'Action'. The table lists five domains: 'lupinepictures.com', 'aharddaysnightmare.com', 'gogouvea.com', 'lupinefilms.org', and 'richardsomething.com'. Each domain row has a 'Launch' button in the 'Action' column. The 'Launch' button for 'richardsomething.com' is circled in green with an arrow pointing to it. At the bottom, there is a pagination bar showing 'Displaying 1-5 of 5 domains' and 'Results per page: 5'.

All done!

It can take GoDaddy up to 24 hours to update their records with your change (though they're generally pretty speedy about it, so it should only take a few). Nothing is happening on our side when you point a domain here so there isn't anything we can do to speed this up.
